

Invitation to:

Global Academic Pediatric Alliance breakfast meeting, Saturday April 21, 0730-0850

The Global Pediatric Academic Alliance (GPAA) is a partnership group under the IPA, which brings together the main pediatric training organisations (such as the RCPCH, the AAP, the RACP etc) for the purpose of supporting pediatric training in areas with limited training resources and major child health burden.

This breakfast meeting, to which all interested are invited, will be to inform attendees of this project, to seek your input and advice as to how best to make this project a success, to discuss the options and opportunities to support the child health workforce in the greater Asian region, and to engage you and your teams in this project. We seek to build greater competence in the child health workforce. In many parts of the world there is limited capacity for local pediatricians to support such training. Together we can make a difference in supporting the pediatric leadership in their training and education work locally.

Please plan to attend and provide input into this initiative. Background information can be found at GapHeal.org

To register for the breakfast meeting, please email:

Jackie.Phillips@flinders.edu.au

Kevin Forsyth
Convener, GPAA and GapHeal